

Unique places. Unique people. One community. One future.

A note from Supervisor Bruce Gibson

Dear Neighbor:

I've always believed the job of county government is to get stuff done.

While in office, I've worked together with our communities to secure new water systems, libraries, public parks and beaches. We're now taking on homelessness, drought response and housing that families can afford.

I'm also committed to standing up for local democracy and basic human decency – under assault even here in SLO County, I'm sad to say. I stand against the political extremism that seeks to undermine confidence in our elections. We must stand for the basic right of women to make their own health care decisions.

In the coming Nov. 8 election, we have a clear choice:

I'm running on my experience, knowledge and proven track record of making local government work for us.

In contrast, my opponent – a recent transplant from Missouri – has no elected experience, offers no policy solutions, and is heavily backed by a local political party that endorses election conspiracies, excuses insurrection, and denies women their basic rights.

You expect county government to work for you, your loved ones and our communities – to make fact-based decisions, to be transparent and accountable for results. That is my responsibility and commitment as your county supervisor.

With deep respect, I ask for your vote. Thanks,

Bruce

Vision. Leadership. Service.

Residents of SLO County deserve county government they can be proud of – fact-based policies, not extreme positions based on hard-right personal politics.

The difference this election is stark:

	Bruce Gibson	Jones
Homelessness	✓ Drove creation of a Safe Parking Program, curbing street camping, sheltering families on county property, leads to long-term housing.	–
Water Resources	✓ Leads SLO County's long-term water resiliency efforts, serves on California County Drought Advisory Group.	–
Next-Gen Housing	✓ Led effort to get Coastal Commission approval of 33 new units for working families of Cambria	–
Infrastructure	✓ Cayucos Vets Hall restoration; new libraries in Atascadero, Cambria; Dog Beach acquired; Cayucos Pier restored; sewer systems built; Atascadero-to-Templeton trail being developed; on and on ...	–
Defending Democracy	✓ Stands against the political extremism threatening our local democracy and women's health care rights	–

Bruce Gibson is the only candidate with the necessary experience, knowledge, temperament ... and proven record of accomplishment. We need that now.
